BEGINNING OF CHRISTIANITY

The word CHRISTIAN ~ is Greek, and was formerly of Pagan usage. As early as 200 BCE, there were Pagan worshipers of Serapis that called themselves "Christians. There already were "Christians" in Egypt, gnostic Sun-worshipers who knelt before huge ankhs (resembles the Christian cross, with a loop above the transverse bar). The Serapis-Isis cult used this symbol at Alexandria. When the Emperor Hadrian wrote from Alexandria, he said:

"Those who worship Serapis are Christians and those who call themselves Bishops of "Christ" are vowed to Serapis (Σάραπις) a Graeco-Egyptian God.

Ancient Babylonian influences abounded then, and abound now, hidden in plain sight. Alexandria was the primary launching point for the new fusion religion we know as "Christianity" today. The word "Christos" is directly related to Krishna, Crestos, and Chreston. These literally mean "shining", as they refer to the Sun. Krishna is the Sun deity of the Hindu religion.

Even as late as 348 CE, Cyrill said: "Let the heresy be silenced which blasphemes the Messiah, the Son of the Mighty One. Let those be silenced who say that the Sun is Messiah, because He is the Creator of the Sun, and not the visible Sun itself." They were calling the Sun "Christ Helios".

The Manichaean's worshiped the "Sun" as it passed through the sky ALL DAY, and Augustine came from them.

The ancient Crestos of the Serapian Cult was worshipped as "the good god", so the word "Christ" is actually a polluted and forbidden word when you carefully weigh the texts of Exodus 23:13 & Deuteronomy 12:28-32.

The word "Christianity" is not found in the original Scriptures at all.

The Greek word "Christos" (kristos) has come to mean anointed, and this corresponds to the Hebrew word Mashiach. What is not commonly known is that Osiris and Mithras were both called "Chreistos", which meant "GOOD". The word was adopted from gnostic Paganism: The inscription "CHRESTOS" can be seen on a Mithra's relief in the Vatican.

During the time of Marcion, around 150 CE, Justin Martyr said that "Christians" were "Chrestoi", or "good men".
"In the ancient world there was a very widespread belief in the sufferings and deaths of gods as being beneficial to man. Adonis, Attis, Dionysos, Herakles, Mithra, Osiris, and other deities, were all saviour-gods whose deaths were regarded as sacrifices made on behalf of mankind; and it is to be noticed that in almost every case there is clear evidence that the god sacrificed himself to himself."

The Vatican was built upon the grounds previously devoted to the worship of Mithra (600 B.C.). The Orthodox Christian hierarchy is nearly identical to the Mithraic version. Virtually all of the elements of Orthodox Christian rituals, from miter, wafer, water baptism, altar, and doxology, were adopted from the Mithra and earlier pagan mystery religions.

The religion of Mithra preceded Christianity by roughly (600) Six hundred years. Mithraic worship at one time covered a large portion of the ancient world. It flourished as late as the (2) second century. The Christian concepts of a Savior came from. Mithra, as the Sun god of ancient Persia. As well as the story First foretold by YWHW about his son the Messiah (ha Mashiah) Yahushua that started all these prophesies in these other Religions!

The Many Faces of Mithra Mainstream scholarship speaks of at least (3) three Mithra's: Mithra, the Vedic God; Mithra, the Persian deity; and Mithras, the Greco-Roman mysteries icon. However, the Persian Mithra apparently developed differently in various places, such as in Armenia, where there appeared to be emphasis on characteristics not overtly present in Roman Mithraism but found as motifs within Christianity, including the Virgin Mother Goddess.

This Armenian Mithraism is evidently a continuity of the Mithraism of Asia Minor and the Near East. This development of Gods taking on different forms, shapes, colors, ethnicities and other attributes according to location, era and so on is not only quite common but also the norm.

Thus, we have hundreds of gods and goddesses who are in many ways interchangeable but who have adopted various differences based on geographical and environmental factors.

Mithra and Christ Over the centuries—in fact, from the earliest Christian times Mithraism has been compared to Christianity, revealing numerous similarities between the two faiths' doctrines and traditions, including as concerns stories of their respective god men.

In developing this analysis, it should be kept in mind that elements from Roman,
Armenian and Persian Mithraism are utilized, not as a whole ideology but as separate items that may have affected the creation of Christianity, whether directly through the mechanism of Mithraism or through another Pagan source within the Roman Empire and beyond.

The evidence points to these motifs and elements being adopted into Christianity not as a whole from one source but singularly from many sources, including Mithraism.

Clement of Alexandria said "all who believe in Christ are called "Chrestoi, that is 'good men". Rome was the center of Chrestos Mithras worship, so the adaptation or revisionism to the new faith of Christianity should hardly be a huge mystery.

The word christianos was used in the Greek text as a device of scorn, since in the ancient world it conveyed a much different sense than it does today. The use of the word christianos was a derisive, scornful label that meant they were like gullible, dumb "BEAST’s", or “CRETINS”.

The word “christianos” (Latin, Christianus) was a term of scorn, traced back through a related word which history never “revised”:

cré·tin (krē'tn) n.

1. A person afflicted with cretinism.

Slang: An idiot.

The American Heritage Illustrated Encyclopedic Dictionary tells us the etymology for the word CRETIN:

cré·tin (kre-tin, kret'n) n. 1. One afflicted with Cretinism. 2. A fool; an idiot.

[French, cretin, from Swiss French, crestin, "CHRISTIAN", hence human being (an idiot being nonetheless human).]

Cretinism is dwarfism and or retardation. Cretin is simply the word that is derived from the word CHRISTIAN.

So, did the disciples use the name christianos of themselves? The answer is that there is no indication of that. If you carefully read those passages with their context, you will note that it appears that it was outsiders, the ridiculing non believers, who called the disciples and believers "CHRISTIANos" because of the reputation by which this religious group was known.
Then what did the Disciples/Believers call themselves? What we do know, is that the New Testament writers addressed the disciples (as the Greek NT text records it) by such words and names as adelphoi ("brothers"), pistoi ("faithful ones"), eklektos ("Chosen ones"), hagios (SEPARATED" ONES), and mathêtai ("Disciples") as in Acts 11:26 and numerous other passages.

But not christianos; it seems this was a by-word used by non believers.

Strong's Number: 5546

Original Word Word Origin
cristianoß
from (5547)

Transliterated Word TDNT Entry
Christianos
9:493,1322

Phonetic Spelling Parts of Speech
khris-tee-an-os'
Noun Masculine

Definition
Christian, a follower of "Christ" not Messiah "ha Mashiach" For many will come in my name, claiming, "I AM" the Christ,' and will deceive many. Matthew 24:5